CATHEDRAL OF THE HOLY FAMILY

SUMMER BULLETIN

PILGRIMS OF HOPE: FORMING DISCIPLES ON THE WAY

The Gospel of today's Liturgy recounts the parable of the Good Samaritan. In the backdrop is the road that goes down from Jerusalem to Jericho along which lies a man who had been beaten badly and robbed by brigands. A priest passing by sees him but does not stop; he keeps on going. A Levite does the same thing.

"But a Samaritan", the Gospel says, "as he journeyed, came to where he was, and when he saw him, he had compassion." Let us not forget these words — "he had compassion" on him. This is what God feels every time he sees us in a problem, in sin, in misery. The Evangelist makes it a point to specify that this Samaritan was on a journey. So, even though he had his own plans and was heading towards a distant destination, this Samaritan does not come up with an excuse but allows himself to get involved. Let us think about this: isn't the Lord teaching us to do just that? To look off into the distance, to our final destination, while paying close attention to the steps to take here and now in order to get there.

It is significant that the first Christians were called "disciples of the Way," that is, of the journey. In fact, believers strongly resemble the Samaritan — like him, the believer is on a journey, he is a wayfarer. Believers know they have not "arrived", but they want to learn each day, following the Lord Jesus who said: "I am the way, and the truth, and the life" (Jn 14:6). The disciple of Christ walks along following Him and thus becomes a "disciple of the Way". He or she goes after the Lord, who is not sedentary but is always on the way. The "disciple of the Way" observes, therefore, that his or her way of thinking and of acting gradually changes, becoming more and more conformed to that of the Master. Walking in Christ's footsteps, the disciple becomes a wayfarer and — like the Samaritan — learns to see and to have compassion. First of all, to see: his eyes are open to reality, not egotistically closed in on the circle of his own thoughts. Instead, the priest and the Levite see the unfortunate man, but they pass by as if they do not see him, they look the other way. The Gospel teaches us to see — it leads each of us to correctly understand reality, overcoming preconceptions and dogmatism each day. Then, it teaches us to follow Jesus, because following Jesus teaches us to have compassion — to become aware of others, especially those who suffer and those in need, and to intervene like the Samaritan, not to pass by but to stop.

Faced with this Gospel parable, it can happen that we might blame others or blame ourselves, pointing fingers at others, comparing them to the priest or the Levite — "This person, that person goes on, that one doesn't stop..." — or even to blame ourselves, counting our own failures to pay attention to our neighbours. But I would like to suggest another type of exercise to you all, not one that finds fault, no. Certainly, we must recognise when we have been indifferent and have justified ourselves. But let us not stop there. We must acknowledge this, it is a mistake. But let us ask the Lord to help us overcome our selfish indifference and put ourselves on the Way. Let us ask him to see and to have compassion. This is a grace we need to ask of the Lord: "Lord, that I might see, that I might have compassion just like you see me and have compassion on me". This is the prayer that I suggest to you today. Pope Francis

PARISH NEWS

The 77th annual provincial CWL convention was in Weyburn on June 1-2 with about 100 members. It was a time to strengthen faith, engage in service, and celebrate decades of dedication to community and church. This year's theme, "Here I am, Lord, Send Me" resonates with our call to serve wherever we are called or find a need. The convention featured two Eucharistic celebrations led by Archbishop Don Bolen of Regina and Fr. Francis Hengen, provincial spiritual advisor. A video presentation on "Understanding Anxiety in Teens" by Fr. Greg Elder and a student counselor was shown. President Helen Kayfish and Donna Aldous presented on Leadership in the League. Life Member Chantal Devine spoke on recruiting, retaining and regaining members. Marilyn Schuck (Weyburn) was awarded the Bellelle Guerin Pin for extraordinary service. Janette Rieger (Regina) received a Life Membership Pin for all her contributions. Catholic women are invited to join CWL to grow in faith and to witness to the love of God through ministry and service.
